per bottle, thus bringing it within the reach of the indi-gent.

My Panacea requires ne cacomium; its astonishing effects and wonderful operation have drawn, both from Patients and Medical Practitioners of the highest re-spectability, the most unqualified approbation, and esta-blished for it a character which Eavy's pen, though dip-ped in gail, sun never tarnish.

The fains reports concerning this valuable medicine, which have been so diffigurity circulated by certain Phy-sicians, have their origin either in ENYY, or in the mis-chievous effects of the SPCRIOUS IMITATIONS.

President of the Academy of Medicine of Philadelphis, &c.
I have, within the last two years, had an opportunity of seeing several cases of very inveterate ulcers, which, having resisted previously the regular modes of freatment, were healed by the use of Air. Swaim's Panacca, and I do believe, from what I have seen, that it will prove an important remady in accolutions, venoreal, and mercurial diseases.

1 have employed the Panacea of Mr. Swaim in namerous instances, within the last three years, and have all ways found it extremely officacious, especially in accoundary syphylis and in mercurial disease. I have no hestation in pronouncing it a medicine of inestimable value.

The fate of General Pileau was more tragical, and equally the result of fierce intrapidity. His column of ten thousand men were marching on the frontiers of Portugal, along the bank of the Tagus. The road was in a very narrow plain, between the river and source. bank of the Tagus. The road was in a very narrow plain, between the river and some mountains. Five or six men preceded in the line; fifty or sixty followed; then came the advanced guard; after which general Pilesu, at the head of the main body; he was riding listless! Jalong, perhaps forty yards, certainly not more, in advance of the column. The road turned; and when his men came up, they found him mortally wounded and stripped of his regimentals. A ly wounded and stripped of his regimentals. A few Guerillas had surprised, stabbed and stripped him in a moment. Pursuit was useless; and the coat he had worn was used afterwards throughout the whole campaign by a Guerilla chief, who had been a physician, and was very much distinguished.

CAVERN OF FOSSIL BONES IN MORAVIA .-CAVERN OF FORSIL BONES IN MORAVIA.—A cavern of considerable size, and abounding in stalactites, has been discovered at two miles and a half from Olmutz, in Moravia, near Neus chloss, a hunting seat belonging to Prince Lichtenstein. Numerous bones and horns of stags, and other animals, covered with stiffactites, have been found here. The most remarkable are—1. A tibis of colossal size. 2. The head of an animal, the size of that of a sheep, having two horns bent back, and a 'out four inches distant from each other. They resemble those of a wild goat (Ibea,) and are entirely covered with stalactites. Among the other bones are several shoulder-blades and hip hones, which seemed to have belonged to an animal the size of a horse. The best preserved specimens have been transmitted to Neuschluss.

infantile delight, he draw his nourishment from that fand becom lately believed with tears at paring. Who is there that has not audited in the scene, when the proud ship has spread her canvas to the breeze, to carry forth the produce of our country to distant lands; or, when returning to her own home-shores, lades with the luxuries of foreign elimes, the gallant tare have "hailed each well known object with delight!" Ay, there they stand! the veterans of the ocean, bidding defiance to the frours of fate, although they are moored in tiers. They are critice too, deep critice; but they cannot fanny the steam-vessel, with a chimnoy for a must and a long line of smoke for a pendant. These are the man that Smollet pictured—the Jack Battlins and the Tom Pipes of former years. Ay, those were rattling days, and piping times! There is no place on earth except Greenwich in which we can now most with them, or find the weather roll or the les-lurch to perfection. They are all thorough-bred; and a thorough-bred swaman is one of the drollest compounds in existence; a mixture of all that is ludicrous and grave; of undannted courage and elly fear. I do not mean the every-day sailor, but the bold, daring, intrapid man-of-war's man; him who in the time of action, primad his wit and his gun together, without a lear of either missing fire.—He has a language poeularly his own, and his figures of rhetoric are perfect reef-hosts to the understanding of a lands-man. If he speaks of his ship, his eloquence surpasses the orations of a Demosthenes, and he revule in the luxuriance of metaphor. The same powers of clocution, with precisely the same powers of clocution, with precisely the same powers of elocution, with precisely the same powers of elocution of the addiction; th or a Demosthenes, and he ravale in the luminance of metaphyr. The same powers of elocution, with precisely the same terms, are applied to his wife, and it is a matter of doubt, which engresses the greatest parties of his effection; if him they are both 'edy-ships. Hear him apparent in the him they are both 'edy-ships. Hear him apparent island, though she may be able to carry a hundred and offly gues, and a urew of a thousand men. "Ohl she is the fleetest of the floet—size on the water like a duck—stands under her canyan as atiff as a crutch—and turns to windward like a witch!" Of his wife he observes,—"What a clean run from stem to stern! She carries her top-gallants through every bresse, and in turning hank for hank never misses stays." He will point to the bows of his ship, and swear she is as sharp as a wedge, never stops at a sea, but goes smack through all. He looks at his wife, adoptes her head-gear and bow-lines, compares her eyes to delphin-strikers, boasts of her fancy and fashion piecus, and declares that she darts along with all the grace of a bonnetts.—When he parts with his wife, to go on a cruiss, no tear moistens his check; there is the honest pressure of the hand, the fureant kins, and then he claps on the topsail halliers, or walks round at the capstan to the lively sounds of music.—But when he quits his ship, the being he heavinged with his own fingers, that has stood under him in many a dark and trying hour, whilst the wild waves have dashed over them with relantiess fury, then—then—the scuppers of his heart are unplugged, and overflow with the soft droppings of sensibility. How often has he stood under him in many a dark and trying hour, whilst the wild waves have dashed over them with relantiess fury, then—then—the scuppers of his heart are unplugged, and overflow with the soft droppings of sensibility. How often has he stood under the bender and overflow with the soft droppings of sensibility. How often has he stood under the tender and overflow that he select for the daring child. With wh

Place confidence in what he says and he will me no deception; doubt his word, and he will indulge you with some of the purest rodomontade that ingenious fancy can invent. He will swear he had a messimate who knew the man in the moon, and on the occasion went hand overhand up a rainbow to pay him a visit. He himself was once powder-monkey in the Volcano bomb, and will tell you a story of his falling asleep in the mortar at the bombardment of Toulon, and his body being discharged from its mouth instead of a carcass. With all the precision of an engineer, he will describe his evolutions in the air when they fired him off, and the manner in which he was saved from being dashed to pieces in his fall.

All this he repeats without a smile upon his ountenance; and he expects you to believe it; but you may soon balance the account; for, tell him what absurdity you will, he receives it with the utmost credulity, and is consinced of its truth. His courage is undoubted, for he will stand on the deck undismayed, amidst the blood and slaughter of battle; yet on whore he is seized with indescribable apprehensions at the sight of a coffin. The wailings of ds ress find a ready passport to his beart; but, to disguise the real motives which prompt immediate aid, he awears that the object of his charity does not deserve a copper, yet gives a pound, with only this provesion, that the individual relieved does not bother him about gratitude. You may know him from a thousand; for though in his dress conspicuousty neat, and his abouting and remains ly neat, and his standing and running rigging in exact order, yet they are arranged with a certain carcless case, as if he had but just come down from reeling topsails. Naples Compound Shaving Cake, Naples Compound Shaving Cake.

TVHIS cake is intended for those only who are willing to purchase the "top of the market." It is higher priced than any other soap, and is of ceresproacting excellence. It is a preparation combining the properties of the far famed Naples soap, and the pure English curd soap, and has been rendered more easy and agreeable in use; and been made susceptible of a much higher grade of perfuse, without endangering its remarkable qualities.

The Naples Soap is, without contradiction, superior to all others, and one which can be made in no other country than that from whence imported, and yet in itself is not an agreeable as it is valuable; but when prepared in the manner of the enclosed, is decidedly improved for use, and yields a lather close, full, rich, permanent, and retentive of its moistury; and is offered to the Bean Monde as a preparation superior to all others within the knowledge of the manufacturer. A supply of the above reticle is received and for salle by the subscriber, at No.
28 South Fourth street.

CHESNUT STREET THEATRE The opers of Native Land was performed on laturday night, in which our three fine singers hoplayed their vocal powers with effect, almyt to a thin house. Mr. PEARMAN, in the seter of Aurelia di Montalto, acted well, ad sang still better. Taxeredi was undertaken by Mr. Lawaron, but he ran aground in it, and ded by Mr. ROWBOTHAM; and alangh an spology was made for the latter gena. on account of his undertaking it at so. hort satis, he showed the audience that he steed in to need of indulgence, as he played the is of the part extremely well, and had such the edvantage of his predecessor in good iche. He was very appropriately and very med. This gentlem a should have been cast for the part at first; but he cannot be to do every thing. He is stage managespend that vecation, I am told, affords labour to weary the limbs of Hercules, and term min of any man who has an ounce of that mutarial in his head, provided he attends to his duty faithfully, as Rownorman certainly Yet I am at a less to conceive, from at many the difficulties of a manager arise .are it from several ladies and gentlemen be-ging to different companies, that there is not so the flow of the certh, a more reasonable, ent, or a more managonble set of bethree of both senor, who, in general, or a thustrical corps. It is said, upon the rame good authority, that the members of a ompany are always particularly accommo with regard to the easting of characters. Is a parformer wanted, to fill an insignificant part, in rhich a player has no chance of making a figure or cutting a dash, as it is called! Instantly ther is a stir in the wiffole troop; each one pres brward with a bow or a courtesy, to offer hi or her invaluable services, to accommodat the manager and cause things to go on in y on the stage. . Kind souls! may you all so each of you, he rewarded according to your de of a theatrical corps, as I have just shown, can not be caused by any perverseness in the players homselves, the thing must be accounted for the obstinary of those understrappers of the con eern, who shift the scenes or sweep the stage.

Ma. Stong's Peregrine was a very boister ous personage. Rosents played the part infl-nitely better. Stone is too much given to bustling and making a noise, yet he is a valuable performer when confined to the parts of old man n comedy. Placed in a character under sixty years of age, he appears to be last. Mr. STONE played the character of Giureppe at Arch street, and performed it excellently, in my opinion better than it was represented by Mr. Jarraneou on Saturday night.

Clymante, the heroine of the Opera, was represented by Mrs. PEARMAN, who sang very agreeably, and was much applauded. Mrs. SLARK's Zaning was, as when I saw her in i before, a very diverting piece of acting; and had not been for the over acting of the husband's part in those scenes where they appear together this fine actress would have appeared to still reater advantage, in the half constant, yet geerous hearted wife of Peregrine; which is cer ainly the best character in the play. No acress dresses her characters better, or looks bet er in them, than Mrs. B.

Callo was a clever, lively performance. Mas werrs hit off the triffing sham lover, in a style that entitles her to higher praise as an actress, than she had before deserved; though she played Polly neatly. Colio was, in truth, what Zani na called him-"a delightful little d-- I, though here was not much of him." In his suit to the Tady, had his looks and speeches failed, his songs must have won the day; for surely none ore exquisite were ever heard. The piece was probably got up hastily, to introduce Mas. Aus TIN, as some of the performers frequently required the prompter's aid.

ENTERPRISE .- A letter from Capt. Hen ustin, dated Matamoras, 8th October, state that his steamboat (the Ariel) had returned from her first trip up the Rio Grande del Norte, hav ing been up 500 miles above that place. The boat did not proceed higher in consequence of erroneous information received from the peo ple on the banks of the river, that there would be no further rise of water during the season .-Capt. Austin considers the fact established, that the Del Norte is navigable and safe at all sea sons of the year, as far as Comargo, a town near the mouth of the St. Juan river, about 160 mile from Matamoras (by land,) and generally above comargo, as far as Paso del Norte. Captair A. found the banks of the river fully settled a far up as he ascended, the people remarkably civil, temperate and well disposed; they collect-ed in crowds wherever the boat stopped, and always behaved with the greatest civility. Cap tain A. expected to start on his first regular trip to Comargo on or about the 15th October. An other letter dated 13th, states that the Ariel rar down from Matamoras to the mouth of the De have received a letter from a friend at Matualan (Gulf of California,) enclosing an account of brutal outrage on the brig Danube, Capt. Cook of this port, which we subjoin. The gentleman who forwarded the statement says, that in consequence of this affair, the house of the Ameri can Consul (J. Lenox Kennedy, Esq. of this city was in danger of being plundered, on account of the tissue of falsehoods which the deputy captain circulated when he got on shore. Our Consul was engaged in taking the declarations of those who were eye witnesses to the affray, in order to bring to punishment the authors of this most barbarous proceeding.

It appears that the attack on the Danube was attem, ed to be justified on the ground that the brig had contraband goods on board; but in order to satisfy the authorities at Mazatlan, Capt. Cook at the request of our Consul, to whom the vessel was consigned, permitted another so rch in order to clear himself and consignee of having combined to cheat the government.

It is particularly worthy of remark, that the brig had been cleared by the Custom House not more than three hours before the affray happened, and that Capt. Cook most willingly submitted to another examination in order to prove his innoceace.

Our friend writes that a young lad, the son o Captain O'Brien of this city, who was on board the Danube, behaved in the most gallant manner. The moment Captain Cook gave orders to defend the vessel, he attacked half a dozen armed soldiers, and forced them all to jump overboard.

Previous to submitting the statement of this affair to the public, we feel justified in saying. on the authority of a letter to a gentleman this city, that when the matter is investigated, which it undoubtedly will be, it will satisfactori ly appear that our worthy and highly estimable fellow citizen, Mr. Kennedy, has been governed throughout by an anxious and laudable desire to protect the honour and interests of his coun-

MAZATLAN, Aug. 25, 1829. MARATLAN, Aug. 25, 1829.

"A most unjustifiable and wanton attack was made upon the brig Danube, of New York, Captain Samuel Cook, lying in this harbor, on the evening of the 22d inst. by a body of soldiers and civilians, armed with sabres, muskets, and hatchets, beseded by Jose Maria Garcia, Deputy Captain of the Port, and Juan Maria Ramires, ntervents of this State.

CONFIRMATION OF PEACE. We are indebted to the editor of the NATION AL GARRTE, for the annexed extracts from a LIVERPOOL paper of the 9th uft. received by the Sylvanus Jenkins, at New York, and transmitted from the office of the NEW YORK GA-SETTE. They communicate certain information of the conclusion of a Peace between Russia and TURKEY. That the ermies of Russia, sight of Constantinoria, and expecting no perious resistance should have been thus stopped in their progress, can only, it seems to us, he attributed to the existence of such engagenents between the Emperor NICHOLAS and allies, as could not have been broken without an utter abandonment of all pretensions to good fai h. The same supposition accounts for the indifference with which the victories of DIE-BITSCH and PASKEVITCH have been viewed by hose who called the battle of NAVARING a untoward event, and seem to be bent on depre ciating the character of Countricton.

The capital remained perfectly tranquil. No official account of the conditions of the treaty appears yet to have reached Government: but we understand from another quarter that the principal points are known, and that they do not differ materially from the account of them which has appeared in the Gasette de France.—By letters from Berlin we learn that the treaty, with a detailed account of the negociations, had been received by the Prussian Government; and that it was expected to appear in an extraordinary numwas expected to appear in an extraordinary num ser of the Prumian State Gazette, so as to reac ber of the Prussian State Gazette, se as to reach this country in the course of a week. According to these letters the Greek question is fully conceded by the Sultan, and the treaty of London, subject only to such medifications as may be recommended by the three Pewers, Russia, France, and England, is to have full effect.—The portion of the Greek territory still in possession of the Turks, will, of course, be evacuated without delay. No new accounts have reached Government from Adrianople. General Distisch was, we believe, there at the date of the accounts from Constantinople. There is no

Despatches from Sir Robert Gordon, at Constantinople, to the 10th of September, were received at the Foreign Office on Saturday last.—They announce that the Porte had agreed to all the terms proposed by Russia, and that it was expected that the treaty of peace would be signed on the 12th of September. The Turkish capital was perfectly quiet. Letters conveying intelligence to the same effect have also been received in London and Paris. The propositions of the Russians are said not to be so moderate as it was supposed they would be. This refers principally to the amount of indemnity claimed by Russia, which is said to be four millions stering, of which the Turks are to pay as much as they can in money, and the rest in fortresses in Asia. The St. Petersburgh journals contain a long report of the operations in Asia up to the 9th of August, from which it appears that Gen. Paskewitsch has met with some farther successes. After a conflict, in which the Turks are said to have lost 300 killed and 150 prisoners, including seven officers of rank, and the Russians, including a Major-General and sixy privates wounded, took possession of Char and other villages, and also of the camp of Osman Pacha, who was completely routed.

He is not only compared to Peter the Great, who likewise led the victorious Russians against the Turks, but is pronounced equal in ilitary talents, to the great Captain, who, fo twenty years, led Frenthmen to triumph and victory, and culled so many never fading laurels for them and for himself. Count Die small in person, and nearly of the same stature as Napoleon; he resembles him likewise in many military qualities. Those persons who have a opportunity of being near his person, are lavish their praise of him, and speak in the highes terms of his litness for a commander; his activi ty; his circumspection; his presence of mind; the vantage from the most trifling fault of his adver sary. He sleeps but four hours out of twenty our, and passes the greater part of the night in dictating orders, or an homeback; to retre in person the outposts, and making disposi ions for the next day. His mosts are extrem rugal, and of the shortest possible duration. DESTRUCTIVE FIRE .- The extensive Mills selonging to Anthony Taylor, Esq. situated at Hulmeville, Bucks County, were entirely destroyed by fire on Saturday night last. They con sisted of a Saw mill, large Grist mill, Wooller Factory, with sundry out buildings. About five hundred bushels of corn were also burnt. The machinery of the Woollen Factory was of a superior description, and had been brought to per faction by the very liberal expenditures of its enterprising owner. The Grist mill contained three pair of stones, and was the great market for much of the grain raised in the neighbourhood, thus affording many facilities to farmers, as well as to the village in which it was situated. The fire was discovered about ten o'clock. raging furiously among the combustible contents of the Woollen Factory, but too late to render availing any attempts to arrest its progress. The engine from Attleborough, two miles dis-tant, was speedily brought to the scene of destruction, and being spiritedly worked by the cilizens, was the means of preserving several valuable houses and stores in the imcinity of the mills. Fortunately, the wind was in a direction from the bridge across the Neshamony, or, from its great proximity to the mills, this must have shared the same fate. The loss s estimated at fifteen thousand dollars, and ne insurance. By this severe calamity, many in lustrious workmen are suddenly thrown out of employment at the approach of the inclement season. Be great was the violence of the flames that the mill stones were crumbled into powder, the wheels destroyed entirely, and the very forebay burnt down to the water's edge.

The JOURNAL OF HEALTH, we are pleased to observe, continues to receive, in various parts of the country, the approbation of journalists and others, whose remarks generally prove that they give sincerely the impressions resulting from careful examination of its pages. The fifth number bears equal evidence with its predecessors of the talent and diligence of the editors and contributors. An article, on the subject of sleep, may be recommended to all young students. The writer himself can hardly have expected to change the habits of those confirmed in the indulgence of late hours at both night and morning, and to teach him who has luxuriated for years in the rosy light of Aurora. The habit must be hope to see regular stamboat navigation age any one to urge the nodes bern of bated, that, " provided a certain ins the fwenty-four hours be per matters little how or where each repositioned." But no one, whose welllife is yet to be formed, can read the annow before its without resolving how adheres to his resolution is another the that the maxim "early to bed and rise," shall always command his most ful obedience. Exercise and sleep a matters in which we boast of con experience; and we feel justified in that, on these subjects, the Journ hat, on these subjects, the Jour Health, with much that is original, has an nothing but what is true. It has been said that nothing is so ful as praise that concludes with as tion. We must venture, however, to that the writer who speaks so wisely sales well on a subject of universal interest, and have qualified the assertion that 4 the vidual who lives a life of teraperate virtue; and partakes daily of sufficient tive exercise, requires no opiate to to repose." We have known the rate, the virtuous; and the active; whose mens sana in corpore sand cause of admiration and respect envy-to all who knew him; the ag roice of whose conscience was enfo the esteem of all his associates; when ieties proceeded from no other son from which we are all decom iraw; such men have we known to night after night, sleepless as if natural nands. But such cases are rare, ffect is but of brief duration.

Several of our readers will peshably be planted with the annexed extract from an establish he Connecticut Counant, press greeable picture of the improvements doubt, whether, during any preceding power of the present century, there has been expended the same amount of money, in the westless of useful and ornamental buildings, that there is been during the past season. Comments the State House Square, two of its most coneen during the past season. uous corners have been stripped of the rior tonements, and occupied with large and venient edifices for stores, efficir, and pro-dwellings. The southern side of this nears sents an example of individual enterprise unblicassit; which is delicated. sents an example of individual enterprise public spirit, which is duly approximated by all friends of improvement, and which we have a prove as profitable, as it is creditable to its pre-prietor. The new Exchange Buildings, on the erner of Main and State-street, are d of particular notice, as a specimen of good took which is highly ornamental to the city—a beautiful front is rarely not with; and it is gratifying to perceive in the from the fourth story to the become the owners is in a fair way to be revel building next east of the Hartford Bank hotogreatly enlarged, and judiciously and tradit metamorphosed, and the post-office arrangements. ment within seems to give general matifacts to our citizens. The new City Hall, and the provements in its immediate vicinity, and general attention. The judiciousness of the cation is questioned by some, and we think altogether without reason—but the falling itself does much credit to the archivet, and the gentleman under where direction the west to been prosecuted. Its arrangements and grown ppearance of the whole edifice, pre example of public spirit of which any city is or country might justly be proud. Among the public edifices, the new Episcopal Church and the building for a High School in Washington street, occupy a prominent place. Both of these buildings are now nearly considered. ings are now nearly completed, the latter is delightfully situated on a commanded emi will rank in spaciousness and beauty with the other public buildings on the same elevation. Of other public buildings on the same constitution the Episcopal Church, our limits will not permit us to speak in detail at this time. It is a more ment of liberal public spirit, guided by sell taste, and in the opinion of those where just ment is more extensive than our own, is supposed in design and execution by few, if any lar buildings in our country. In the western we tion of the city, several expensive and elegant; private dwellings have arises within a short period. A still more striking alteration is visible in the northern and eastern sections of Dorr as Talcott stree's, where a host of nest, comform ble, and handsome tenements have sprung s and are already occupied, or ready to be ed to families of a moderate income, at a le rate. In the vicinity of Village et., several handome houses have also been erected, chiefly by enterprising mechanics. There is 'no class & buildings we are more pleased to see increase than economical brick houses, of moderate at pense. Houses of this description have been much needed among us—they pay gradual and the tennets who occupy them are the best class of our citisens. In this best shotch, we have only glanced at some of the more prominent improvements. A large number of belidings, not noticed in the above, have been rected in different parts of the city. Some see and pleasant streets have also been opened, of fording eligible building lots, which we treet will not long remain unoccupied. On the which there is potceptible a gradual progress in the growth of the city which if leasanthing and also growth of the city, which, if less striking and atended with less noise than in some stances, is not, we hope, the lass solid, or the lass certain indication of real prosperity. In connection with this subject, we may properly allude to the improvements of the Consecuta River Company. The past season has been highly favourable for the presecution of the highly favourable for the presecution of the leace of the inimproved under the asperintendence of the in-defitigable agent of the company, that the works are now brought very nearly to their oplotion. The water has been led into the es and we are informed it will very seen be ready smoke of the midnight lamp, to prefer the for the passage of boats. In another season we
